The let is a valuable one and there are in numerable loads of good building sand underneath the building that will sell readily the city is in need of money and the lot and sand should be realised on.

Last evening found things manning prefity smoothly in all the temporary quarters at the new City Hall. Fixed as they are now, the officials find the change over the dark, dirty, musty quarters they have been occupying for so many years, so pleasant, that, did they not know that they were to have nicely furnished quarters in a month or six weeks they would be content situated as they are. They find plenty of light and air, and are not in dread of the building falling to pieces shout them.
